

MARK PHELPS TO STEP DOWN AS GROUP CEO OF G. H. FINANCIALS IN EARLY 2022

LONDON, 7 December 2021

G. H. Financials, a leading independent clearing firm for exchange-traded derivatives, announces that a leadership transition is underway with the planned departure of its Group CEO, Mark Phelps, early next year.

Mark has decided that following 10 successful years with the Company, latterly as Group CEO since March 2018, it is time for him to pursue new challenges and opportunities elsewhere.

To facilitate a smooth transition, the Board of G. H. Financials has agreed with Mark that he will retain his current responsibilities as Group CEO until a successor has been confirmed in due course.

In the meantime, Mark will continue to work closely with Ben Hepden, Group CFO and fellow Executive Director of G. H. Financials in London, as well as the Board and the rest of the G. H. Financials executive team globally, during this period of transition.

Gedon Hertshten, founder and Majority Shareholder of G. H. Financials, together with non-executive Chairman Mark Ibbotson, congratulated and thanked Mark Phelps for his successful 10 years with the Company while acknowledging his wish to seek a new challenge at this stage of his career.

Mark Ibbotson, Chairman of the Board, G. H. Financials, said:

“We are grateful for everything Mark has achieved at G. H. Financials. He leaves the firm in great shape, he will always remain our friend, and we appreciate his aim to ensure a smooth transition while a successor is identified and appointed next year.”
